*Elective units must be chosen from substantive seminars in Sociology, in consultation with the student's advisor. Courses taken outside the department are not accepted for this requirement without approval by the student's faculty advisor and the Director of Graduate Studies via the Course Substitution-Waiver Form. Directed Readings (i.e. Sociology 596) cannot be used to satisfy this requirement.

- List any courses for which you have an approved course substitution or waiver, including: 1) the quarter/year you took the course, 2) course number/title, and 3) institution the course was taken at. If none list "N/A."

M.A. COMMITTEE & THESIS REQUIREMENT

- Have you already nominated your M.A. thesis committee by completing the Committee Nomination Form-I/Conflict of Interest paperwork? If so, during what quarter/year?

Not yet, formally

- List your M.A. committee members (indicate each individual's cmte role/affiliation, e.g. Lisa Hajjar, Chair - Sociology Dept). If you haven't formed your committee yet, list "N/A" for each individual.

Individual #1: N/A

Individual #2: N/A

Individual #3: N/A

Individual #4 (optional): N/A

- If you do not have a M.A. Thesis Chair, indicate who your current Faculty Advisor is:

William Robinson

- M.A. Thesis proposed filing quarter (Quarter + Year):

- M.A. Thesis Title:

SECTION B: Incomplete, No Grade (NG), or No Record (NR) Coursework

- List any courses for which you have a NG or NR assigned, including the quarter/yr you took the course:

- List any courses for which you have an Incomplete assigned, including the quarter/yr you took the course:

- If you have either an Incomplete, NG, or NR, by when will you complete the missing work?

SECTION C: Research

Please provide information on the following from July 1, 2022 – June 30, 2023:

- Presentations including conference roundtables (identify conference):

- Papers published (complete citation):

Mejía, José Manuel. 2023. "El Estallido En Los Andes En Perspectiva Internacional." In Estallido Popular. Protesta y Masacre En Perú, 2022-2023, edited by Gustavo Montoya and Homero Quiroz, 83–94. Lima: Estallido Editorial & Editorial Horizonte.

- Papers submitted:

Submitted to the Journal of World System Research (JWSR): Indigenous peasant struggles against imperialist mining and its antisystemic effects in the dynamics of capital accumulation in the XXI century. (Second round of the review process).

- Awards (e.g. outstanding TA, best paper award, etc.):

- Fellowships:

SERVICE:

- Please identify committee service for the department, campus, professional organization, or other organization you participated in during 2022-23:

TEACHING:

- If applicable, what courses did you serve as a TA for during the 2022-2023 academic year?

I'm not yet making T.A. I will since Fall 2024.

- Did you feel prepared to TA?

Yes, and I'm excited to work on it.

- Do you think there is anything more the department should do to assist you to TA?

Yes, considering my improvement in English oral and listening skills, while I took the LING4 course recommended during Spring 2024 to fulfill the expectation of the department as a T.A. for Fall 2024. And, taking advantage of my theoretical skills in social movements and political sociology to assist me in my first T.A. courses.

- Briefly describe the evaluations you received from your students:

- Spring 2023:
- Fall 2023:
- Winter 2024:

SECTION D: Academic Timetable

For students who have not yet completed the MA requirements, please provide a timetable for completion of any remaining coursework, research, writing, and the thesis defense:

Spring 2024	LING4 (required for T.A. as international student), SOC205B, SOC207B
Summer 2024	Thesis writing
Fall 2024	SOC211A (Field Research in Sociology), GLOB260 (Theories of Imperialism), GLOBL132 (Global Finance)

Winter 2025	Comparative historical sociology (SOC212A)
Spring 2025	POLS594GS (Political Economy of the Environment in the Global South), Thesis defense

SECTION E - Student Feedback:

- List any other activities related to your studies you think are important to bring to the attention of the Graduate Program & Admissions Committee (GPAC):

I really would like to start a reading, workshop, data group with which I can discuss and advance in Marxist theory, particularly related to its application to the systematic study of the relation between class struggle and international political economy, considering the current processes of intensification of the colonial policy expansion by imperialist wars, the authoritarian-militarism reversion of the political regimes, and the crisis of overaccumulation pushing the economic and political competition of imperialist bourgeoisies different fractions.

- If you have had any difficulties or roadblocks, please list them. In your opinion, what might be done to address the difficulty or roadblock?

I'm looking for the Comparative Historical Sociology courses of the department to enroll in, but I couldn't find it in the GOLD. I will require this course for the competition of my Method Courses requirements, and it is fundamental for my research background. I will also be required to take courses on political economy, offered in GLOBL or POLS as they may be offered during 2024 and 2025 quarters.

SECTION F: MA Thesis Chair or Faculty Advisor

Please answer each of the following questions about your student's academic progress (after reviewing the transcript attached by student) and sign below. Note that all students who entered in Fall 2020 or earlier should have both filed the MA thesis AND be advanced to candidacy for the PhD by Fall 2024 to be considered in good academic standing; in some cases, students may have an additional 1-year time-to-degree or time-to-advance extension due to the COVID pandemic (contact the Graduate Program Office with any questions).

1. Please provide a brief summary of your student's progress this year.

   José Manuel is just finishing his first year in the program. He is on schedule with his courses and taking LING4 so that he can work as teaching assistant next year. (His vocabulary and syntax are sufficient and he needs to work on his pronunciation. I expect he will be prepared for TAing by next academic year).

2. How often do you meet with your mentee one on one? Are you aware of how often they meet with other committee members or faculty?

José Manuel and I meet or talk by phone regularly, several times a month.

3. If the student has not completed the MA thesis this academic year, have you discussed a timeline for meeting this important milestone? If so, describe the timeline that you agreed upon. If not, please indicate when you plan to have this conversation.

Yes, he is working on his thesis. He will put together the formal MA thesis committee in fall. We are waiting for Kevin Anderson to return from sabbatical in fall in order to complete the thesis committee paperwork. José Manuel entered our program with two MAs. He has been researching the mining sector and peasant resistance to extractivism in the Andean region. He is continuing this research, which will be the topic of his thesis.

4. If the student has completed the MA thesis this academic year, please describe what you and the committee have recommended to your mentee as next steps relative to both their thesis as well as further research? (If relevant, please mention if you feel they will need any specific support to take on this work and whether you are able to provide that support.)

5. Did your mentee have any additional accomplishments or challenges not reflected on the document that are important to acknowledge or understand? If yes, please describe.

José Manuel has had a difficult cultural transition to the United States and into the US university system, which is quite distinct from that of Ecuador and Peru, where he previously completed higher education degrees.

6. How do you feel your mentee is prepared for the next academic year and what are you hoping to help them accomplish?

He should be able to complete his coursework and defend a thesis by the end of spring 2025

7. Is there anything else the department should be aware of that might help us better support your mentee?

Hopefully the department will be able to certify him as ready for TAing by fall.

William I Robinson
